The substate regions defined here were created in consultation with the California Department of Health Care Services. The state's 58 counties with the exception of Los Angeles County. Los Angeles County is further split into service areas defined in terms of census tracts (from the 2010 decennial census). As per the state's request, estimates for 26 substate regions, one aggregate planning area (Region 11 for Los Angeles County) and maps showing all 26 substate regions have been developed. SPA 5 in Los Angeles County were combined because individually the sample sizes in these regions were too small.

Table 8. DELAWARE – 2012-2014 National Survey on Drug Use and Health Substate Region Definitions (defined in terms of counties and census tracts from the 2010 decennial census, specified by a 6-digit tract identifier)

The state's Division of Substance Abuse and Mental Health (DSAMH), Delaware Department of Health and Social Services, defines its planning regions in terms of the state's three counties, with the exception of the Wilmington City and New Castle regions. The Wilmington City region (which lies in New Castle County) was defined based on all of the census tracts from the 2010 decennial census that are either fully or partially contained in Wilmington City. The New Castle region (excluding Wilmington City) comprises all of the tracts that are in New Castle County except those in the Wilmington City limits.

Table 12. HAWAII – 2012-2014 National Survey on Drug Use and Health Substate Region Definitions (defined in terms of counties)

The substate regions for Hawaii were defined in consultation with the state's Alcohol and Drug Abuse Division, Hawaii Department of Health. As per the state's request, estimates for four substate regions, corresponding to the four counties in the state, have been produced.

Hawaii Island	Honolulu	Kauai	Maui
Hawaii	Honolulu	Kauai	Maui

NOTE: The 2012-2014 substate regions defined for Hawaii in this table are different from the substate regions defined in the "2010-2012 National Survey on Drug Use and Health Substate Region Definitions." For the first time, estimates for the aggregate region combining Kauai and Maui are not included. Historically, this aggregate region was included for several reasons: (1) When substate estimates were first produced, estimates for Kauai were not included because its sample size was too small. As a result, Kauai was combined with the region with the next smallest sample size (Maui) to create an aggregate substate region. (2) Even when the sample size was large enough to produce separate estimates for Kauai in subsequent reports, estimates for the aggregate Kauai and Maui region continued to be produced for comparison with estimates from prior time periods. (3) In the event that Kauai's sample size would not be large enough in future reports, the aggregate region estimate would be available in order to continue to compare estimates covering all four regions across time. However, beginning in 2014, an annual target sample size was specified for Kauai in order to achieve a 3-year expected sample size of about 200, which was sufficiently large enough to produce separate estimates for that region. Therefore, it is anticipated that the aggregate region will no longer be needed and has been dropped beginning with the 2012-2014 substate estimation processing.

The remaining four regions in Hawaii are defined consistently across the following time periods: 2006-2008, 2008-2010, 2010-2012, and 2012-2014.

Table 36. OHIO – 2012-2014 National Survey on Drug Use and Health Substate Region Definitions (defined in terms of counties)

The Ohio Department of Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services suggested that it would be useful to provide substate use estimates for Ohio boards, which in turn are defined using the state's 88 counties (as defined from the 2010 decennial census). Because of sample size constraints, in consultation with the state's Center for Substance Abuse Treatment (CSAT) contact, adjacent boards were combined to form substate regions. Urban and rural counties were not collapsed together to form substate regions.
